Dryrainge becomes National Partner of the PGA of Canada

PGA of Canada members will have opportunity to take advantage of the partnership with the Saskatoon-based makers of the all-weather driving range cover

[ACTON, ONT.]— Dryrainge, the makers of golf's premium range cover, has been announced as a National Partner of the PGA of Canada today.

The agreement will see Dryrainge offer its impressive product to PGA of Canada members and their facilities who are looking for an all-weather driving range cover. Dryrainge will also have the opportunity to have its all-weather cover setup on the driving range at every PGA of Canada National Championship.

"The PGA of Canada is proud that Dryrainge has come on board as a National Partner," says the PGA of Canada's CEO, Gary Bernard. "This is another partnership that helps the PGA offer a benefit to improve the working conditions of our Professional's during less than ideal conditions for lessons."

Founded 15 years ago in Saskatoon, Dryrainge allows golfers to hit balls from natural grass surfaces, while eliminating the threat of cancelled lessons, clinics and golf schools due to rain, high winds or the harmful effects of the sun.

"PGA of Canada members represent the top of our pyramid demographic for Dryrainge," said Bruce Rempel, president, of Dryrainge. "As a company, we understand the financial burden golf professionals suffer from cancelled lessons, demo days, golf schools or clinics due to inclement weather or harmful UV rays from the sun. Dryrainge eliminates these problems. It allows golf professionals, club members and guests to schedule and enjoy lessons in comfort."

Established in 1911, the PGA of Canada is the second oldest and third largest professional golf association in the world. Comprised of more than 3,800 golf professionals from across the country and around the world, the association is leading the charge for golf in Canada.
