Dryrainge Named Canadian Golf Product of the Year by SCOREGolf

Range Cover Specialist Wins Awards in Consecutive Years from Canadian publication

SASKATOON, Sask. – Dryrainge, makers of golf's premium range cover unit, announced today it has won SCOREGolf Magazine's 2011 Canadian Golf Product of the Year in the publication's year end equipment and business Awards. It's the second year in a row Dryrainge has been honored. A year ago the range cover brand was named SCOREGolf's Emerging Canadian Golf Company of the Year.

"Functionally, Dryrainge is a big benefit to a golf course," said Rick Young, SCOREGolf's business analyst. "It protects members, guests and the staff from bad weather situations including rain, wind and UV rays. That can help eliminate cancelled lessons, clinics or demo days. A golf course can receive multiple benefits from Dryrainge."

Announcement of the award was made on SCOREGolf's website in mid-December.

"We could not be more excited," said Bruce Rempel, President of Dryrainge. "This is two years in a row for Dryrainge to be honored by SCOREGolf. I think that proves word is starting to spread about Dryrainge and its benefits to courses that have one at their practice facility. We hope to carry over this momentum into 2012.”

The SCOREGolf Product of the Year award caps a memorable year for the Saskatoon, Saskatchewan company. Earlier this fall Dryrainge agreed to partner with the PGA of America and the PGA’s Winter Championships Series in Florida.
